

Riparian

Riparian areas are the lush bands of vegetation in the floodplain of a river. They are a source of food, water, shelter and travel corridors. The plants purify and water, stabilize the soil, and reduce the flow of sedimentation into the river.

